Venue: YMA Ground, Berhampore

Dated: 26.01.26 to 01.02.26

Introduction: As part of its commitment to external outreach activities, educational institutions place special emphasis on fostering meaningful student engagement with society. In this context, a stall was presented by the students of Berhampore College at the Berhampore History Festival held in YMA ground, Berhampore. The initiative served as a significant educational and cultural endeavour, reflecting the institution's dedication to community participation and experiential learning.

Brief Description of the Programme: The students of Berhampore College set up an informative and interactive stall at the Berhampore History Festival held in YMA ground Berhampore. The stall aimed to showcase historical insights, cultural heritage, and academic perspectives, thereby creating a platform for dialogue between the institution and the wider community. Through this initiative, students not only demonstrated their academic understanding but also enhanced their communication, organizational, and collaborative skills. The programme thus emerged as a meaningful educational and cultural endeavour, reinforcing the college's dedication to experiential learning and community participation. The programme, coordinated by the Murshidabad District History and Culture Study Centre in collaboration with the local administration and cultural organisations, provided a platform for academic interaction and public engagement.

Objective: The objective of organising the exhibition-based presentation under the theme "Institutions of India Completing 100 Years" at the Berhampore History Festival was to promote historical awareness and academic engagement by highlighting the legacy and contributions of century-old institutions in India. Through collaborative efforts led by Berhampore College and coordinated by the Murshidabad District History and Culture Study Centre along with local administration and cultural organisations, the programme aimed to create a meaningful platform for scholarly exchange, student participation, and public interaction, thereby fostering a deeper appreciation of India's institutional heritage and cultural continuity.

Conclusion: The exhibition-based presentation on the theme "Institutions of India Completing 100 Years" at the Berhampore History Festival concluded on a highly enriching and inspiring note. There are twenty five active participation of students and teachers of Berhampore College significantly enhanced the academic depth and public appeal of the programme. Through well-prepared models and detailed written explanations, the exhibition successfully highlighted the historical journey and enduring contributions of India's century-old institutions. The collaborative initiative of the Murshidabad District History and Culture Study Centre, local administration, and cultural organisations ensured a vibrant platform for intellectual exchange and community engagement. Overall, the event not only strengthened historical consciousness but also fostered a spirit of scholarship and cultural pride among all participants.
